Illuminating Engineering Society notes

Index Volume 7, 1975

		Page
Presidential address: Space, time and light in architecture	Derek Phillips	1
Comparison of high-pressure discharges in mercury and the halides of aluminium, tin and lead	A. G. Chalmers, D. O. Wharmby & F. L. Whittaker	11
New blue lamp for phototherapy of hyperbilirubinemia	W. L. Wanmaker, J. F. van Gils & J. W. ter Vrugt	19
Fluorescent lamp coatings with layers of different compositions	J. W. ter Vrugt, L. W. J. Manders & W. L. Wanmaker	23
Simple calculation methods for the lighting of passages and tunnels	H. D. Einhorn	30
High beam intensity and obstacle visibility	G. Helmers & K. Rumar	35
National Illumination Committee of Great Britain Report		43
Development of integrated ceiling systems	L. Bedocs & M. J. H. Pinniger	69
Symposium on tunnel lighting:
(1) Fundamental visual problems in tunnels	D. A. Schreuder	85
(2) Applied research on tunnel entrance lighting in Japan	K. Narisada	87
(3) Engineering aspects of tunnel lighting	H. O. Westermann	90
(4) Tunnel lighting practice in the Netherlands	D. van den Bijllaardt	95
(5) Tunnel lighting in Switzerland	E. Müller & W. Riemenschneider	99
Discussion		102
Relationship between two systems of glare limitation	H. E. Bellchambers, J. B. Collins & V. H. C. Crisp	106
Errata		198
Corrections for chromatic adaption in the determination of colour rendering indices. Part 2	S. T. Henderson & M. B. Halstead	113
Illuminance, diversity and disability glare in emergency lighting	R. C. Simmons	125
Semiconductor ballast circuits for discharge lamps	P. R. Samuels	133
Colour vision characteristics
(1) The perception process	W. D. Wright	155
(2) Colour defects and their investigation	Jennifer Birch	159
(3) Dark night takes colour away from things	D. A. Palmer	163
Discussion		166
Utilance values and uniformity in a model room	A. R. Bean	169
Visibility under night driving conditions. Part 1. Laboratory background and theoretical considerations	B. L. Hills	179
The concept of the luminaire domain	J. A. Lynes	185
Artificial lighting for commercial horticulture	J. Weir	209
Impact of electronics on lighting	A. Isaacs	226
The luminaire domain and the flow of light	J. A. Lynes	242
Visibility under night driving conditions. Part 2. Field measurements using disc obstacles and a pedestrian dummy	B. L. Hills	251

Research notes

Properties of a fluorescent lamp filled with the mercury isotope ^{202}Hg	G. Franck & F. Schipp	49
A simple contrast reducing visibility meter	A. I. Slater	52
Disability glare: the relationship between veiling luminance and threshold rise	R. I. Bell & A. M. Marsden	56
Estimating scalar illuminance	J. A. Lynes	142
Emission lines in the spectra of halogen incandescent lamps	W. J. van den Hoek & E. G. Berns	143
Predicting sunlight penetration	A. C. Lynch & S. Griffiths	185
Subjective judgements of lighting in lecture rooms	P. T. Stone, K. C. Parsons & Susan D. P. Harker	259

Correspondence

Illuminance and visual performance	S. K. Guha	198
